

Leadership Conferences

Leadership conferences are one of the many opportunities available to students enrolled in agriculture classes. Some conferences are only for a couple of hours after school, some on Saturdays and some are overnight trips. All leadership conferences give students the opportunity to participate in exciting workshops that will help them develop their goals for their future, time management skills as well as communication and leadership skills. The opportunities are definitely worth while for your student. All conferences are designed to help the students grow and develop as individuals and to teach them the skills that they will need to be successful in whatever they choose. The conferences are broken into levels starting with section conferences which provide a lower level of leadership training on up to state conferences which include much more in-depth training for your student. Listed below are the dates of the conferences, costs, clothing requirements & money deadlines.
